Here are some things to try as you read MoMA, Pop-Up Books, and A Game of Numbers on Math Munch.

- Look at Philippe Decrauzat's black and white design. Try to make one of your own.
- Check out Tauba Auerbach's blue and black sculptures. How many sides do you think they have? How did you figure it out?
- Which is your favorite pop-up sculpture? Why do you like it?
- What is something you liked or were surprised by in the interview with Nalini Joshi?
- Try playing A Game of Numbers. How far can you get? Which level is trickiest, and why?
- Who is someone new that you learned about in this post? What is a fact about them that you think is interesting?
